Hi Summer,

Park Strategies, LLC and I are registered with the U.S. Department of Justice, under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, as agents on behalf of our client, the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States.

See below. Senator D'Amato was hoping Sen. Thune would be able to drop by the signing tomorrow. It's part of Taiwan's agriculture mission and means $485 mil for South Dakota!

Please let me know if he is able to attend.

Thank you!

Dana,

Would AMD consider calling Sen. Thune about this today? As per below and attached, Jason's hosting an LOI signing tomorrow by a Taiwan agricultural mission that's going to buy - among other things - South Dakota wheat. The delegation's even going to visit South Dakota after D.C. They plan on buying $485 million in wheat, but I can't say how much of that $485 million will come from South Dakota. But either way, it's a South Dakota sale abroad.

The ceremony will be held in Room SVC 208 of the U.S. Capitol Visitor Center on Tuesday, September 20th from 2:30-5pm. FYI, the actual signing's in between 3:30-4:30pm. As per below, I've tried working this via Jim Long in Sen. Thune's office, with whom we worked on the F-16 letter. But I haven't gotten any response. So far, no senator, from any of the selling states, is confirmed to attend. It'd obviously be great to show we got Sen. Thune there.

Let me know if AMD wants to call, and if he needs any further information.

Thanks,

Dear Jim,

As you may recall from our F-16 conversations and e-mails in May, Park Strategies, LLC and I are registered with the U.S. Department of Justice, under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, as agents on behalf of our client, the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States. I doubt you handle wheat, but I don't know anybody else in your office. I'd appreciate you handing this on to the right person.

A wheat-buying delegation from Taiwan will visit South Dakota, among a few other states, in late September. As per the attached invitation which Senator Thune has presumably already received from Taiwan Ambassador Special Representative Jason Yuan, there will be an LOI signing ceremony for said agricultural purchases on Tuesday, September 20th from 2:30-5pm. FYI, the actual signing's in between 3:30-4:30pm.

It would mean so much to Ambassador Yuan if Senator Thune could stop by the signing, as the delegation's visiting South Dakota. Please let us know if there's any further information you might need on this, thanks in advance for your kind consideration.

Dear Mr. Daly,

My name is LaShaun Lesley, a colleague of Vito Fossella's. As Congressman Fossella may have told you, Park Strategies, LLC and I are registered with the U.S. Department of Justice, under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, as agents on behalf of our client, the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States.

Pursuant to Congressman Fossella's conversations with Congressman McCotter and yourself regarding possible congressional travel to Taiwan, please see attached correspondence between former U.S. Under Secretary of State for Public Diplomacy Karen Hughes and former Taiwan Ambassador David Tawei Lee regarding the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act (MEACA) of 1961. Taiwan's qualified for MEACA since 2006. As such, any Taiwan visit by Congressman McCotter could be paid for through the MEACA program, i.e. using Taiwan funds that are administered by the U.S. State Department.

If Congressman McCotter's interested in visiting Taiwan, please let us know how he feels about having it paid via the MEACA program. If not, we can explore other options. Thanks so much in advance for your assistance.

Best wishes,

DRAFT CONGRESSIONAL RECORD STATEMENT ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA (TAIWAN)

Mr. Speaker, October 10th of this year marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC). In those 100 years, the United States has had the support of few better friends, or allies in any part of the world – let alone in Asia – than the ROC. Inspired to creation by American ideals of individual liberty and freedom, the ROC and United States have stood beside each other in some of our two lands' darkest hours and most challenging times.

U.S. and ROC forces both shed blood against Imperial Japan in the Second World War. This wartime alliance is most clearly remembered in the form of the Flying Tigers that was commanded by ROC First Lady Madame Chiang Kai-shek who was also the first woman to ever address a joint session of the United States Congress.

And in the Cold War, after the ROC relocated to Taiwan after the Chinese Civil War, Taiwan was an indispensable link in America's Korean War effort. U.S. General Douglas MacArthur rightly labeled Taiwan an "...unsinkable aircraft carrier in the Pacific" when speaking of the joint U.S.-ROC Korean War effort. ROC ground troops fought side by side with U.S. forces in the fierce battles at, below and above the 38th Parallel. The Washington-Taipei alliance was later institutionalized in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution of 1955. Taiwan was also a key base, and intelligence-gathering source, for U.S. forces in the Vietnam War.

But of perhaps greatest value to Taiwan – be it during instances like Beijing's 1954-55 bombing of the Taipei-administered islands of Quemoy and Matsu, or the Taiwan Strait Missile Crisis in 1996 – America's always had Taiwan's "back" as the island's faced countless mainland Chinese military threats and provocations over the last 62 years. And while travel, trade and investment flourish across the Taiwan Strait today, that lethal mainland Chinese military threat remains. Because while the two sides are managing record levels of trade and investment across the Taiwan Strait, Beijing has refused to renounce its right to use force against Taiwan. In fact, it has more than 1,000 missiles trained on Taiwan and its military expenditures are growing at a breakneck rate.

That's why when the U.S. Embassy was moved from Taipei to Beijing in 1979, it was so vital – to Taiwan's interests, and to our own – that Congress passed the Taiwan Relations Act (TRA) which kept in place many of the same U.S. commitments found in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution. Hence as called for in the TRA, we must provide Taiwan with arms of a defensive nature to ward off any potential mainland attack. Otherwise, Taiwan cannot be guaranteed of its way of life. people, goods and money that cross the Taiwan Strait such military hardware strength is unfortunately the only language that Beijing's military planners understand.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to not only join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its century of existence and the fine democratic example which it has set, but to also urge our own government's officials to continue to provide Taiwan with the defensive arms it needs to maintain its own security and to safeguard the lofty, yet realized, ideals that inspired its creation.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds one century of the Republic of China (ROC).

History – and, particularly Chinese history – is filled with many tales of heartbreak, despotism, suffering and despair. But over a century ago, one man, Dr. Sun Yat-sen had a different vision for a new China. Having spent his formative adolescent years in Hawaii, Dr. Sun returned to China inspired by the uniquely American ideals of Alexander Hamilton and Abraham Lincoln. When given the chance, Dr. Sun would tell anybody who would listen that the crux of President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, “government of the people, by the people, for the people”, had shaped his own political philosophy, the Three Principles of the People.

While implementation of Sun's three principles was often flawed and undermined while the ROC was on mainland China, they eventually took shape – long after his death – following the ROC's move to Taiwan in 1949. In 1987, Taiwan lifted its Martial Law Emergency Decree. In 1991, free elections were held for its Legislative Yuan. And in 1996, amidst the attempted intimidation of mainland Chinese missiles being lobbed into the Taiwan Strait, Taiwan staged its first free presidential election. Taiwan has since had three more free presidential elections with power changing hands once in each direction and is scheduled to have another such election this coming January.

Voter participation in Taiwan is among the highest in the world, and its people value and embrace its democracy. With so many government ministers having lived and studied in the United States, the ROC-U.S. connection and shared democratic ideals forged under Dr. Sun are alive and well in Taiwan.

While apologists for dictatorships the world over, including that of the People's Republic of China (P.R.C.), too often contend that individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values, the Republic of China (ROC) on Taiwan stands as a beacon for individual rights and representative government. I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100 years of principled existence, and on its living example of true democracy against threats that at times might cause others to cower.

DRAFT CONGRESSIONAL RECORD STATEMENT ON THE 100TH OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA (TAIWAN)

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Too many people who should know better have been quoted as saying that Western-style individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values. Well, just like former U.S. John F. Kennedy said in 1963 to those who didn’t really believe in the threat of Soviet communism, “Let them come to Berlin!”, for those who don’t think true civil rights and democracy can exist and thrive in Asia, I say, “Let them come to Taiwan!”

As Taiwan comes up on its fifth direct presidential election, I sometimes think that politics that has managed to eclipse baseball as the island’s national sport. Everywhere one goes in Taiwan, people want to somehow engage each other in – as well as foreign visitors – and talk politics. But such debate and discourse is always carried out without any fear of reprisal and with legally protected respect for all citizens’ individual rights. The same cannot be said at all about life across the Taiwan Strait in mainland China.

And, again in contrast to mainland China, it’s not only political rights that are protected in Taiwan. Many of the world’s great religions are openly and enthusiastically practiced in Taiwan. These denominations include Buddhism, Taoism, Christianity and many more. Labor unions, NGOs and various activist groups are also free to operate in Taiwan. Taiwan is further home to many languages, dialects and cultures from across Asia. It’s an open, cultural melting pot mosaic of what’s best about Asia.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China – that’s now on Taiwan – on its century of tolerance, freedom and eventual democratic ideals. What’s more, Taiwan has achieved all this while under at times great threat of mainland Chinese attack. If all societies practiced Taiwan’s policy of openness and individual rights – even in the face of great obstacles – the world would be a far better place.

Madam Speaker, October 10th marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Just as it was an early Asian backer of democratic principles and ideals, the ROC government – on Taiwan since 1949 – was also an early adapter and proponent of what is commonly today called globalization. Taiwan, Asia's first Economic Tiger, embraced market reforms in the 1950s and quickly launched some of the best known, and most efficient, original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) that came to serve many U.S. multinationals. Today's Taiwan is a technology powerhouse and the island's firmly entrenched in the top tier of developed world markets.

And while many other markets turn inwards when economic times are tough, Taiwan's almost always kept its trade and investment doors open. A founding member of the Asia Development Bank in 1966, the ROC on Taiwan joined the World Trade Organization (WTO) in 2001. It further acceded to the WTO's Government Procurement Agreement (GPA) in 2009.

And since 2008, Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou has removed many of the longstanding trade and investment barriers to mainland China, resulting in Taiwan now being positioned as a global gateway to and from the so-called "Greater China" market. This new outlook culminated in last year's signing of the Economic and Cooperation Framework Agreement between Taiwan and mainland China. Foreign firms can now access mainland China's vast economic potential from the comfort and safety of a Taiwan market that's among the friendliest in the world to U.S. companies and one that also values and protects their intellectual property.

I look forward to the day when the United States can announce the start of free trade agreement (FTA) negotiations with Taiwan, as Singapore did last year. Such a move not only benefit Taiwan companies, but also their many U.S. counterparts that do business there.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on its 100 years of existence, Taiwan's many economic achievements since 1949, and to further support enhanced economic relations between the United States and Taiwan.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th marks the 100th anniversary of China's Wuchang Uprising which led to the creation of the Republic of China (ROC) that now exists on Taiwan.

The ROC marked the end of the Qing Dynasty, ending 2,000 years of imperial rule in China and resulting in East Asia's now-oldest republic. The ROC's almost idealistic inception amazes me all the more when I pause to think of the many illiberal and colonial regimes that ruled much of East Asia at the time.

Though his dreams of civil, liberal government have yet to be realized on the mainland, ROC founding father Sun Yat-sen hoped the ROC would one day develop into a fully democratic society modeled on many of the same principles and norms that he had observed while an adolescent in Hawaii. And though it came to pass well after he left this world, and on a different land mass, his dreams of representative democracy are an undeniable reality on Taiwan today.

And the ROC's emulation of American ideals and principles hasn't been limited to its political evolution. Time after time, whether it be in the struggle against fascism, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, or joining us in calling for the removal of Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein in 2003, the ROC – be it housed on mainland China, or Taiwan – has stood shoulder to shoulder with the United States to defend and promote the very values and ideals that inspired Dr. Sun to create the ROC in the first place.

I thus urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100th anniversary, while also acknowledging its Founding Fathers' foresight and – most of all – thanking its and its people for their loyalty, friendship and support for an entire century. Congratulations, Taiwan!

Valerie Levin

Dear Ben,

October 10th is the Centennial celebration of the Republic of China (Taiwan's legal name). If she hasn't already been asked to do so, might Congresswoman Maloney consider entering a statement into the Congressional Record in support thereof? If so, I can send you a few suggested DRAFTS. Madam Speaker, October 10th marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Just as it was an early Asian backer of democratic principles and ideals, the ROC government – on Taiwan since 1949 – was also an early adapter and proponent of what is commonly today called globalization. Taiwan, Asia's first Economic Tiger, embraced market reforms in the 1950s and quickly launched some of the best known, and most efficient, original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) that came to serve many U.S. multinationals. Today's Taiwan is a technology powerhouse and the island's firmly entrenched in the top tier of developed world markets.

And while many other markets turn inwards when economic times are tough, Taiwan's almost always kept its trade and investment doors open. A founding member of the Asia Development Bank in 1966, the ROC on Taiwan joined the World Trade Organization (WTO) in 2001. It further acceded to the WTO's Government Procurement Agreement (GPA) in 2009.

And since 2008, Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou has removed many of the longstanding trade and investment barriers to mainland China, resulting in Taiwan now being positioned as a global gateway to and from the so-called "Greater China" market. This new outlook culminated in last year's signing of the Economic and Cooperation Framework Agreement between Taiwan and mainland China. Foreign firms can now access mainland China's vast economic potential from the comfort and safety of a Taiwan market that's among the friendliest in the world to U.S. companies and one that also values and protects their intellectual property.

I look forward to the day when the United States can announce the start of free trade agreement (FTA) negotiations with Taiwan, as Singapore did last year. Such a move not only benefit Taiwan companies, but also their many U.S. counterparts that do business there.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on its 100 years of existence, Taiwan's many economic achievements since 1949, and to further support enhanced economic relations between the United States and Taiwan.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th marks the 100th anniversary of China's Wuchang Uprising which led to the creation of the Republic of China (ROC) that now exists on Taiwan.

The ROC marked the end of the Qing Dynasty, ending 2,000 years of imperial rule in China and resulting in East Asia's now-oldest republic. The ROC's almost idealistic inception amazes me all the more when I pause to think of the many illiberal and colonial regimes that ruled much of East Asia at the time.

Though his dreams of civil, liberal government have yet to be realized on the mainland, ROC founding father Sun Yat-sen hoped the ROC would one day develop into a fully democratic society modeled on many of the same principles and norms that he had observed while an adolescent in Hawaii. And though it came to pass well after he left this world, and on a different land mass, his dreams of representative democracy are an undeniable reality on Taiwan today.

And the ROC's emulation of American ideals and principles hasn't been limited to its political evolution. Time after time, whether it be in the struggle against fascism, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, or joining us in calling for the removal of Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein in 2003, the ROC – be it housed on mainland China, or Taiwan – has stood shoulder to shoulder with the United States to defend and promote the very values and ideals that inspired Dr. Sun to create the ROC in the first place.

I thus urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100th anniversary, while also acknowledging its Founding Fathers' foresight and – most of all – thanking its and its people for their loyalty, friendship and support for an entire century. Congratulations, Taiwan!

Hey Sean, Brad shot me a note about the F16 letter you were interested in having Bill sign onto. Wanted to let you know I emailed Jeremy in Rep. Berkeley's office today and we're on board. All set!

In the future, feel free to make me your point of contact for all things defense. I've handled HASC for Rep. Owens for a couple of years and can probably help you out. Stay in touch, and if you're up on the Hill feel free to drop by. I feel like we may have met at one point but it's been awhile. Enjoy the week, -JB

Lonnie,

I hadn't thought of this when I sent you my Bobcat e-mail, but now that I am...

October 10th is the 100th anniversary of the Republic of China (Taiwan's legal name). Might Congressman Berg consider entering a statement into the Congressional Record in support thereof? If so, I can send you a few suggested DRAFTs. Just let me know, thanks.

A Taiwan wheat-buying delegation will visit Idaho, along with a few other states, in late September. As per the attached invitation which Senator Fischer has presumably already received, there will be an LOI signing ceremony for said purchases on Tuesday, September 20th from 2:30-5pm in Room SVC 208 of the U.S. Capitol Visitor Center. FYI, the actual signing's between 3:30-4:30pm.

Considering Senator Crapo's a strong Taiwan supporter and not long ago met with Taiwan Special Representative Ambassador Jason Yuan, please know how much it would mean to Ambassador Yuan and Senator D'Amato if Senator Crapo could stop by the signing. It's good for Idaho exports and it's good for Taiwan.

Please let me know what, if any, further information you might need.

Hi Walter,

I will send you a separate email about Monday's lunch. We are looking forward to it.

In the meantime, I will tell you that Park Strategies, LLC, Park Strategies Managing Director Senator Alfonse M. D'Amato, and I are registered with the U.S. Department of Justice, under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, as agents on behalf of our client, the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States.

We were hoping that Rep. Crowley would consider entering a statement into the Congressional Record for Taiwan's 100th anniversary and/or attend a reception with Senator D'Amato on October 5th? If he's willing to enter a statement, I can send anybody in his office a few DRAFT samples. Let me know who I should contact.

Let me know your thoughts. We can talk more Monday.

Thank you!

D'Amato, and I are registered with the U.S. Department of Justice, under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, as agents on behalf of our client, the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States.

Next month marks the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of China (Taiwan's legal name). To mark the occasion, Taiwan Special Representative Ambassador Jason Yuan will host a special Centennial reception on Wednesday, October 5th from 5-8pm at the Twin Oaks Estate on 3225 Woodley Road, NW in Washington, DC. Senator D'Amato, who will attend the event, wanted to know if Senator Lugar could join him that night. It would mean so much to Senator D'Amato and Ambassador Yuan if Senator Lugar could make it.

Please see attached an invitation and map to Twin Oaks. Please let us know if Senator Lugar can make it, and whether you have any questions. Thanks in advance for Senator Lugar's consideration of Senator D'Amato's request.

Joel -

We're going to do something for the Congressional Record on this. We'll do it on or about the anniversary date -- likely the 11th, since we're not in session on the 10th. I'll send you a copy of what we plan to enter once we're all set with it, ok?

Mr. Speaker, October 10th of this year marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC). In those 100 years, the United States has had the support of few better friends, or allies in any part of the world – let alone in Asia – than the ROC. Inspired to creation by American ideals of individual liberty and freedom, the ROC and United States have stood beside each other in some of our two lands' darkest hours and most challenging times.

U.S. and ROC forces both shed blood against Imperial Japan in the Second World War. This wartime alliance is most clearly remembered in the form of the Flying Tigers that was commanded by ROC First Lady Madame Chiang Kai-shek who was also the first woman to ever address a joint session of the United States Congress.

And in the Cold War, after the ROC relocated to Taiwan after the Chinese Civil War, Taiwan was an indispensable link in America's Korean War effort. U.S. General Douglas MacArthur rightly labeled Taiwan an "...unsinkable aircraft carrier in the Pacific" when speaking of the joint U.S.-ROC Korean War effort. ROC ground troops fought side by side with U.S. forces in the fierce battles at, below and above the 38th Parallel. The Washington-Taipei alliance was later institutionalized in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution of 1955. Taiwan was also a key base, and intelligence-gathering source, for U.S. forces in the Vietnam War.

But of perhaps greatest value to Taiwan – be it during instances like Beijing's 1954-55 bombing of the Taipei-administered islands of Quemoy and Matsu, or the Taiwan Strait Missile Crisis in 1996 – America's always had Taiwan's "back" as the island's faced countless mainland Chinese military threats and provocations over the last 62 years. And while travel, trade and investment flourish across the Taiwan Strait today, that lethal mainland Chinese military threat remains. Because while the two sides are managing record levels of trade and investment across the Taiwan Strait, Beijing has refused to renounce its right to use force against Taiwan. In fact, it has more than 1,000 missiles trained on Taiwan and its military expenditures are growing at a breakneck rate.

That's why when the U.S. Embassy was moved from Taipei to Beijing in 1979, it was so vital – to Taiwan's interests, and to our own – that Congress passed the Taiwan Relations Act (TRA) which kept in place many of the same U.S. commitments found in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution. Hence as called for in the TRA, we must provide Taiwan with arms of a defensive nature to ward off any potential mainland attack. Otherwise, Taiwan cannot be guaranteed of its way of life. For all the people, goods and money that cross the Taiwan Strait such military hardware strength is unfortunately the only language that Beijing's military planners understand.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to not only join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its century of existence and the fine democratic example which it has set, but to also urge our own government's officials to continue to provide Taiwan with the defensive arms it needs to maintain its own security and to safeguard the lofty, yet realized, ideals that inspired its creation.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds one century of the Republic of China (ROC).

History – and, particularly Chinese history – is filled with many tales of heartbreak, despotism, suffering and despair. But over a century ago, one man, Dr. Sun Yat-sen had a different vision for a new China. Having spent his formative adolescent years in Hawaii, Dr. Sun returned to China inspired by the uniquely American ideals of Alexander Hamilton and Abraham Lincoln. When given the chance, Dr. Sun would tell anybody who would listen that the crux of President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, “government of the people, by the people, for the people”, had shaped his own political philosophy, the Three Principles of the People.

While implementation of Sun's three principles was often flawed and undermined while the ROC was on mainland China, they eventually took shape – long after his death – following the ROC's move to Taiwan in 1949. In 1987, Taiwan lifted its Martial Law Emergency Decree. In 1991, free elections were held for its Legislative Yuan. And in 1996, amidst the attempted intimidation of mainland Chinese missiles being lobbed into the Taiwan Strait, Taiwan staged its first free presidential election. Taiwan has since had three more free presidential elections with power changing hands once in each direction and is scheduled to have another such election this coming January.

Voter participation in Taiwan is among the highest in the world, and its people value and embrace its democracy. With so many government ministers having lived and studied in the United States, the ROC-U.S. connection and shared democratic ideals forged under Dr. Sun are alive and well in Taiwan.

While apologists for dictatorships the world over, including that of the People's Republic of China (P.R.C.), too often contend that individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values, the Republic of China (ROC) on Taiwan stands as a beacon for individual rights and representative government. I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100 years of principled existence, and on its living example of true democracy against threats that at times might cause others to cower.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Too many people who should know better have been quoted as saying that Western-style individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values. Well, just like former U.S. John F. Kennedy said in 1963 to those who didn’t really believe in the threat of Soviet communism, “Let them come to Berlin!”, for those who don’t think true civil rights and democracy can exist and thrive in Asia, I say, “Let them come to Taiwan!”

As Taiwan comes up on its fifth direct presidential election, I sometimes think that politics that has managed to eclipse baseball as the island’s national sport. Everywhere one goes in Taiwan, people want to somehow engage each other in – as well as foreign visitors – and talk politics. But such debate and discourse is always carried out without any fear of reprisal and with legally protected respect for all citizens’ individual rights. The same cannot be said at all about life across the Taiwan Strait in mainland China.

And, again in contrast to mainland China, it’s not only political rights that are protected in Taiwan. Many of the world’s great religions are openly and enthusiastically practiced in Taiwan. These denominations include Buddhism, Taoism, Christianity and many more. Labor unions, NGOs and various activist groups are also free to operate in Taiwan. Taiwan is further home to many languages, dialects and cultures from across Asia. It’s an open, cultural melting pot mosaic of what’s best about Asia.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China – that’s now on Taiwan – on its century of tolerance, freedom and eventual democratic ideals. What’s more, Taiwan has achieved all this while under at times great threat of mainland Chinese attack. If all societies practiced Taiwan’s policy of openness and individual rights – even in the face of great obstacles – the world would be a far better place.

DRAFT CONGRESSIONAL RECORD STATEMENT ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA (TAIWAN)

Madam Speaker, October 10th marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Just as it was an early Asian backer of democratic principles and ideals, the ROC government – on Taiwan since 1949 – was also an early adapter and proponent of what is commonly today called globalization. Taiwan, Asia's first Economic Tiger, embraced market reforms in the 1950s and quickly launched some of the best known, and most efficient, original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) that came to serve many U.S. multinationals. Today's Taiwan is a technology powerhouse and the island's firmly entrenched in the top tier of developed world markets.

And while many other markets turn inwards when economic times are tough, Taiwan's almost always kept its trade and investment doors open. A founding member of the Asia Development Bank in 1966, the ROC on Taiwan joined the World Trade Organization (WTO) in 2001. It further acceded to the WTO's Government Procurement Agreement (GPA) in 2009.

And since 2008, Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou has removed many of the longstanding trade and investment barriers to mainland China, resulting in Taiwan now being positioned as a global gateway to and from the so-called "Greater China" market. This new outlook culminated in last year's signing of the Economic and Cooperation Framework Agreement between Taiwan and mainland China. Foreign firms can now access mainland China's vast economic potential from the comfort and safety of a Taiwan market that's among the friendliest in the world to U.S. companies and one that also values and protects their intellectual property.

I look forward to the day when the United States can announce the start of free trade agreement (FTA) negotiations with Taiwan, as Singapore did last year. Such a move not only benefit Taiwan companies, but also their many U.S. counterparts that do business there.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on its 100 years of existence, Taiwan's many economic achievements since 1949, and to further support enhanced economic relations between the United States and Taiwan.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th marks the 100th anniversary of China's Wuchang Uprising which led to the creation of the Republic of China (ROC) that now exists on Taiwan.

The ROC marked the end of the Qing Dynasty, ending 2,000 years of imperial rule in China and resulting in East Asia's now-oldest republic. The ROC's almost idealistic inception amazes me all the more when I pause to think of the many illiberal and colonial regimes that ruled much of East Asia at the time.

Though his dreams of civil, liberal government have yet to be realized on the mainland, ROC founding father Sun Yat-sen hoped the ROC would one day develop into a fully democratic society modeled on many of the same principles and norms that he had observed while an adolescent in Hawaii. And though it came to pass well after he left this world, and on a different land mass, his dreams of representative democracy are an undeniable reality on Taiwan today.

And the ROC's emulation of American ideals and principles hasn't been limited to its political evolution. Time after time, whether it be in the struggle against fascism, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, or joining us in calling for the removal of Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein in 2003, the ROC – be it housed on mainland China, or Taiwan – has stood shoulder to shoulder with the United States to defend and promote the very values and ideals that inspired Dr. Sun to create the ROC in the first place.

I thus urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100th anniversary, while also acknowledging its Founding Fathers' foresight and – most of all – thanking its and its people for their loyalty, friendship and support for an entire century. Congratulations, Taiwan!

DRAFT CONGRESSIONAL RECORD STATEMENT ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA (TAIWAN)

Madam Speaker, October 10th marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Just as it was an early Asian backer of democratic principles and ideals, the ROC government – on Taiwan since 1949 – was also an early adapter and proponent of what is commonly today called globalization. Taiwan, Asia's first Economic Tiger, embraced market reforms in the 1950s and quickly launched some of the best known, and most efficient, original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) that came to serve many U.S. multinationals. Today's Taiwan is a technology powerhouse and the island's firmly entrenched in the top tier of developed world markets.

And while many other markets turn inwards when economic times are tough, Taiwan's almost always kept its trade and investment doors open. A founding member of the Asia Development Bank in 1966, the ROC on Taiwan joined the World Trade Organization (WTO) in 2001. It further acceded to the WTO's Government Procurement Agreement (GPA) in 2009.

And since 2008, Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou has removed many of the longstanding trade and investment barriers to mainland China, resulting in Taiwan now being positioned as a global gateway to and from the so-called "Greater China" market. This new outlook culminated in last year's signing of the Economic and Cooperation Framework Agreement between Taiwan and mainland China. Foreign firms can now access mainland China's vast economic potential from the comfort and safety of a Taiwan market that's among the friendliest in the world to U.S. companies and one that also values and protects their intellectual property.

I look forward to the day when the United States can announce the start of free trade agreement (FTA) negotiations with Taiwan, as Singapore did last year. Such a move not only benefit Taiwan companies, but also their many U.S. counterparts that do business there.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on its 100 years of existence, Taiwan's many economic achievements since 1949, and to further support enhanced economic relations between the United States and Taiwan.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th marks the 100th anniversary of China's Wuchang Uprising which led to the creation of the Republic of China (ROC) that now exists on Taiwan.

The ROC marked the end of the Qing Dynasty, ending 2,000 years of imperial rule in China and resulting in East Asia's now-oldest republic. The ROC's almost idealistic inception amazes me all the more when I pause to think of the many illiberal and colonial regimes that ruled much of East Asia at the time.

Though his dreams of civil, liberal government have yet to be realized on the mainland, ROC founding father Sun Yat-sen hoped the ROC would one day develop into a fully democratic society modeled on many of the same principles and norms that he had observed while an adolescent in Hawaii. And though it came to pass well after he left this world, and on a different land mass, his dreams of representative democracy are an undeniable reality on Taiwan today.

And the ROC's emulation of American ideals and principles hasn't been limited to its political evolution. Time after time, whether it be in the struggle against fascism, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, or joining us in calling for the removal of Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein in 2003, the ROC – be it housed on mainland China, or Taiwan – has stood shoulder to shoulder with the United States to defend and promote the very values and ideals that inspired Dr. Sun to create the ROC in the first place.

I thus urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100th anniversary, while also acknowledging its Founding Fathers' foresight and – most of all – thanking its and its people for their loyalty, friendship and support for an entire century. Congratulations, Taiwan!

Sean,

I have forwarded the drafts to our communications director, however, not knowing what will be happening that week I don't want to make any promises about what Rick will use his floor time to speak on. I will circle up with you and let you know what our communication plan for that week ends up being.

Thanks,

Dear Stefanie,

We spoke in July regarding Taiwan. Thanks again for following up with me on that. As you may recall, Park Strategies, LLC, Park Strategies Managing Director Senator Alfonse M. D'Amato, and I are registered with the U.S. Department of Justice, under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, as agents on behalf of our client, the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States.

Next month marks the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of China (Taiwan's legal name). To mark the occasion, Taiwan Special Representative Ambassador Jason Yuan will host a special Centennial reception on Wednesday, October 5th from 5-8pm at the Twin Oaks Estate on 3225 Woodley Road, NW in Washington, DC. Senator D'Amato, who will attend the event, would be honored if Senator Isakson could join him that night. Considering what a strong friend and supporter of Taiwan Senator Isakson is, it would mean so much to Senator D'Amato and Ambassador Yuan if he could make it.

Please see attached an invitation and map to Twin Oaks. Please let us know if Senator Isakson can perhaps make it, and whether you have any further questions. Thanks in advance for your consideration of our request.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th of this year marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC). In those 100 years, the United States has had the support of few better friends, or allies in any part of the world – let alone in Asia – than the ROC. Inspired to creation by American ideals of individual liberty and freedom, the ROC and United States have stood beside each other in some of our two lands’ darkest hours and most challenging times.

U.S. and ROC forces both shed blood against Imperial Japan in the Second World War. This wartime alliance is most clearly remembered in the form of the Flying Tigers that was commanded by ROC First Lady Madame Chiang Kai-shek who was also the first woman to ever address a joint session of the United States Congress.

And in the Cold War, after the ROC relocated to Taiwan after the Chinese Civil War, Taiwan was an indispensable link in America’s Korean War effort. U.S. General Douglas MacArthur rightly labeled Taiwan an “...unsinkable aircraft carrier in the Pacific” when speaking of the joint U.S.-ROC Korean War effort. ROC ground troops fought side by side with U.S. forces in the fierce battles at, below and above the 38th Parallel. The Washington-Taipei alliance was later institutionalized in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution of 1955. Taiwan was also a key base, and intelligence-gathering source, for U.S. forces in the Vietnam War.

But of perhaps greatest value to Taiwan – be it during instances like Beijing’s 1954-55 bombing of the Taipei-administered islands of Quemoy and Matsu, or the Taiwan Strait Missile Crisis in 1996 – America’s always had Taiwan’s “back” as the island’s faced countless mainland Chinese military threats and provocations over the last 62 years. And while travel, trade and investment flourish across the Taiwan Strait today, that lethal mainland Chinese military threat remains. Because while the two sides are managing record levels of trade and investment across the Taiwan Strait, Beijing has refused to renounce its right to use force against Taiwan. In fact, it has more than 1,000 missiles trained on Taiwan and its military expenditures are growing at a breakneck rate.

That’s why when the U.S. Embassy was moved from Taipei to Beijing in 1979, it was so vital – to Taiwan’s interests, and to our own – that Congress passed the Taiwan Relations Act (TRA) which kept in place many of the same U.S. commitments found in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution. Hence as called for in the TRA, we must provide Taiwan with arms of a defensive nature to ward off any potential mainland attack. Otherwise, Taiwan cannot be guaranteed of its way of life. For all the people, goods and money that cross the Taiwan Strait such military hardware strength is unfortunately the only language that Beijing's military planners understand.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to not only join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its century of existence and the fine democratic example which it has set, but to also urge our own government's officials to continue to provide Taiwan with the defensive arms it needs to maintain its own security and to safeguard the lofty, yet realized, ideals that inspired its creation.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds one century of the Republic of China (ROC).

History – and, particularly Chinese history – is filled with many tales of heartbreak, despotism, suffering and despair. But over a century ago, one man, Dr. Sun Yat-sen had a different vision for a new China. Having spent his formative adolescent years in Hawaii, Dr. Sun returned to China inspired by the uniquely American ideals of Alexander Hamilton and Abraham Lincoln. When given the chance, Dr. Sun would tell anybody who would listen that the crux of President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, “government of the people, by the people, for the people”, had shaped his own political philosophy, the Three Principles of the People.

While implementation of Sun’s three principles was often flawed and undermined while the ROC was on mainland China, they eventually took shape – long after his death – following the ROC’s move to Taiwan in 1949. In 1987, Taiwan lifted its Martial Law Emergency Decree. In 1991, free elections were held for its Legislative Yuan. And in 1996, amidst the attempted intimidation of mainland Chinese missiles being lobbed into the Taiwan Strait, Taiwan staged its first free presidential election. Taiwan has since had three more free presidential elections with power changing hands once in each direction and is scheduled to have another such election this coming January.

Voter participation in Taiwan is among the highest in the world. and its people value and embrace its democracy. With so many government ministers having lived and studied in the United States, the ROC-U.S. connection and shared democratic ideals forged under Dr. Sun are alive and well in Taiwan.

While apologists for dictatorships the world over, including that of the People’s Republic of China (P.R.C.), too often contend that individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values, the Republic of China (ROC) on Taiwan stands as a beacon for individual rights and representative government. I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100 years of principled existence, and on its living example of true democracy against threats that at times might cause others to cower.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Too many people who should know better have been quoted as saying that Western-style individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values. Well, just like former U.S. John F. Kennedy said in 1963 to those who didn’t really believe in the threat of Soviet communism, “Let them come to Berlin!”, for those who don’t think true civil rights and democracy can exist and thrive in Asia, I say, “Let them come to Taiwan!”

As Taiwan comes up on its fifth direct presidential election, I sometimes think that politics that has managed to eclipse baseball as the island’s national sport. Everywhere one goes in Taiwan, people want to somehow engage each other in – as well as foreign visitors – and talk politics. But such debate and discourse is always carried out without any fear of reprisal and with legally protected respect for all citizens’ individual rights. The same cannot be said at all about life across the Taiwan Strait in mainland China.

And, again in contrast to mainland China, it’s not only political rights that are protected in Taiwan. Many of the world’s great religions are openly and enthusiastically practiced in Taiwan. These denominations include Buddhism, Taoism, Christianity and many more. Labor unions, NGOs and various activist groups are also free to operate in Taiwan. Taiwan is further home to many languages, dialects and cultures from across Asia. It’s an open, cultural melting pot mosaic of what’s best about Asia.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China – that’s now on Taiwan – on its century of tolerance, freedom and eventual democratic ideals. What’s more, Taiwan has achieved all this while under at times great threat of mainland Chinese attack. If all societies practiced Taiwan’s policy of openness and individual rights – even in the face of great obstacles – the world would be a far better place.

Dear Jon,

Thanks so much for your e-mail. This is great news. GREAT news! Thanks again, really. I've let our Taiwan friends know that Mr. Owens is coming, and they're obviously very happy. I'll defer to my colleague, John Zagame, on all matters semiconductors and TSMC.

I've reattached five DRAFT statements on the ROC's Centennial in the event Mr. Owens wants to enter something into the Congressional Record. As you know, Park Strategies, LLC, Park Strategies Managing Director Senator Alfonse M. D'Amato, and I are registered with the U.S. Department of Justice, under the Foreign Agents Registration Act, as agents on behalf of our client, the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States.

Thanks, so much again, Jon.

Best wishes,
Sean King

Hey sean, he certainly does. I'm told he's looking to get there around 5, assuming no issues with votes. Ill make a note to coordinate on this early next week to see about arriving at the same time, so we'll plan to talk more then.

Also, I saw the governor's semiconductor announcement and TSMC's involvement. That's great news, though I didn't see a proposed location for them. Does this announcement have implications for the project we've discussed, or do you have any additional details you can share? Thanks as always Jon, does Rep. Owens still plan to join us next Wednesday night? If so, we can make plans to arrive together, etc. Just let me know, thanks.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th of this year marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC). In those 100 years, the United States has had the support of few better friends, or allies in any part of the world – let alone in Asia – than the ROC. Inspired to creation by American ideals of individual liberty and freedom, the ROC and United States have stood beside each other in some of our two lands' darkest hours and most challenging times.

U.S. and ROC forces both shed blood against Imperial Japan in the Second World War. This wartime alliance is most clearly remembered in the form of the Flying Tigers that was commanded by ROC First Lady Madame Chiang Kai-shek who was also the first woman to ever address a joint session of the United States Congress.

And in the Cold War, after the ROC relocated to Taiwan after the Chinese Civil War, Taiwan was an indispensable link in America's Korean War effort. U.S. General Douglas MacArthur rightly labeled Taiwan an "...unsinkable aircraft carrier in the Pacific" when speaking of the joint U.S.-ROC Korean War effort. ROC ground troops fought side by side with U.S. forces in the fierce battles at, below and above the 38th Parallel. The Washington-Taipei alliance was later institutionalized in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution of 1955. Taiwan was also a key base, and intelligence-gathering source, for U.S. forces in the Vietnam War.

But of perhaps greatest value to Taiwan – be it during instances like Beijing's 1954-55 bombing of the Taipei-administered islands of Quemoy and Matsu, or the Taiwan Strait Missile Crisis in 1996 – America's always had Taiwan's "back" as the island's faced countless mainland Chinese military threats and provocations over the last 62 years. And while travel, trade and investment flourish across the Taiwan Strait today, that lethal mainland Chinese military threat remains. Because while the two sides are managing record levels of trade and investment across the Taiwan Strait, Beijing has refused to renounce its right to use force against Taiwan. In fact, it has more than 1,000 missiles trained on Taiwan and its military expenditures are growing at a breakneck rate.

That's why when the U.S. Embassy was moved from Taipei to Beijing in 1979, it was so vital – to Taiwan's interests, and to our own – that Congress passed the Taiwan Relations Act (TRA) which kept in place many of the same U.S. commitments found in the Sino-American Mutual Defense Treaty and Formosa Resolution. Hence as called for in the TRA, we must provide Taiwan with arms of a defensive nature to ward off any potential mainland attack. Otherwise, Taiwan cannot be guaranteed of its way of life. For all the people, goods and money that cross the Taiwan Strait such military hardware strength is unfortunately the only language that Beijing's military planners understand.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to not only join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its century of existence and the fine democratic example which it has set, but to also urge our own government's officials to continue to provide Taiwan with the defensive arms it needs to maintain its own security and to safeguard the lofty, yet realized, ideals that inspired its creation.

DRAFT CONGRESSIONAL RECORD STATEMENT ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA (TAIWAN)

Madam Speaker, October 10th marks 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Just as it was an early Asian backer of democratic principles and ideals, the ROC government – on Taiwan since 1949 – was also an early adapter and proponent of what is commonly today called globalization. Taiwan, Asia's first Economic Tiger, embraced market reforms in the 1950s and quickly launched some of the best known, and most efficient, original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) that came to serve many U.S. multinationals. Today's Taiwan is a technology powerhouse and the island's firmly entrenched in the top tier of developed world markets.

And while many other markets turn inwards when economic times are tough, Taiwan's almost always kept its trade and investment doors open. A founding member of the Asia Development Bank in 1966, the ROC on Taiwan joined the World Trade Organization (WTO) in 2001. It further acceded to the WTO's Government Procurement Agreement (GPA) in 2009.

And since 2008, Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou has removed many of the longstanding trade and investment barriers to mainland China, resulting in Taiwan now being positioned as a global gateway to and from the so-called "Greater China" market. This new outlook culminated in last year's signing of the Economic and Cooperation Framework Agreement between Taiwan and mainland China. Foreign firms can now access mainland China's vast economic potential from the comfort and safety of a Taiwan market that's among the friendliest in the world to U.S. companies and one that also values and protects their intellectual property.

I look forward to the day when the United States can announce the start of free trade agreement (FTA) negotiations with Taiwan, as Singapore did last year. Such a move not only benefit Taiwan companies, but also their many U.S. counterparts that do business there.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on its 100 years of existence, Taiwan's many economic achievements since 1949, and to further support enhanced economic relations between the United States and Taiwan.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th marks the 100th anniversary of China's Wuchang Uprising which led to the creation of the Republic of China (ROC) that now exists on Taiwan.

The ROC marked the end of the Qing Dynasty, ending 2,000 years of imperial rule in China and resulting in East Asia's now-oldest republic. The ROC's almost idealistic inception amazes me all the more when I pause to think of the many illiberal and colonial regimes that ruled much of East Asia at the time.

Though his dreams of civil, liberal government have yet to be realized on the mainland, ROC founding father Sun Yat-sen hoped the ROC would one day develop into a fully democratic society modeled on many of the same principles and norms that he had observed while an adolescent in Hawaii. And though it came to pass well after he left this world, and on a different land mass, his dreams of representative democracy are an undeniable reality on Taiwan today.

And the ROC's emulation of American ideals and principles hasn't been limited to its political evolution. Time after time, whether it be in the struggle against fascism, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, or joining us in calling for the removal of Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein in 2003, the ROC – be it housed on mainland China, or Taiwan – has stood shoulder to shoulder with the United States to defend and promote the very values and ideals that inspired Dr. Sun to create the ROC in the first place.

I thus urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100th anniversary, while also acknowledging its Founding Fathers' foresight and – most of all – thanking its and its people for their loyalty, friendship and support for an entire century. Congratulations, Taiwan!

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Too many people who should know better have been quoted as saying that Western-style individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values. Well, just like former U.S. John F. Kennedy said in 1963 to those who didn’t really believe in the threat of Soviet communism, “Let them come to Berlin!”, for those who don’t think true civil rights and democracy can exist and thrive in Asia, I say, “Let them come to Taiwan!”

As Taiwan comes up on its fifth direct presidential election, I sometimes think that politics that has managed to eclipse baseball as the island’s national sport. Everywhere one goes in Taiwan, people want to somehow engage each other in – as well as foreign visitors – and talk politics. But such debate and discourse is always carried out without any fear of reprisal and with legally protected respect for all citizens’ individual rights. The same cannot be said at all about life across the Taiwan Strait in mainland China.

And, again in contrast to mainland China, it’s not only political rights that are protected in Taiwan. Many of the world’s great religions are openly and enthusiastically practiced in Taiwan. These denominations include Buddhism, Taoism, Christianity and many more. Labor unions, NGOs and various activist groups are also free to operate in Taiwan. Taiwan is further home to many languages, dialects and cultures from across Asia. It’s an open, cultural melting pot mosaic of what’s best about Asia.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China – that’s now on Taiwan – on its century of tolerance, freedom and eventual democratic ideals. What’s more, Taiwan has achieved all this while under at times great threat of mainland Chinese attack. If all societies practiced Taiwan’s policy of openness and individual rights – even in the face of great obstacles – the world would be a far better place.

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds one century of the Republic of China (ROC).

History – and, particularly Chinese history – is filled with many tales of heartbreak, despotism, suffering and despair. But over a century ago, one man, Dr. Sun Yat-sen had a different vision for a new China. Having spent his formative adolescent years in Hawaii, Dr. Sun returned to China inspired by the uniquely American ideals of Alexander Hamilton and Abraham Lincoln. When given the chance, Dr. Sun would tell anybody who would listen that the crux of President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, “government of the people, by the people, for the people”, had shaped his own political philosophy, the Three Principles of the People.

While implementation of Sun's three principles was often flawed and undermined while the ROC was on mainland China, they eventually took shape – long after his death – following the ROC's move to Taiwan in 1949. In 1987, Taiwan lifted its Martial Law Emergency Decree. In 1991, free elections were held for its Legislative Yuan. And in 1996, amidst the attempted intimidation of mainland Chinese missiles being lobbed into the Taiwan Strait, Taiwan staged its first free presidential election. Taiwan has since had three more free presidential elections with power changing hands once in each direction and is scheduled to have another such election this coming January.

Voter participation in Taiwan is among the highest in the world, and its people value and embrace its democracy. With so many government ministers having lived and studied in the United States, the ROC-U.S. connection and shared democratic ideals forged under Dr. Sun are alive and well in Taiwan.

While apologists for dictatorships the world over, including that of the People's Republic of China (P.R.C.), too often contend that individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values, the Republic of China (ROC) on Taiwan stands as a beacon for individual rights and representative government. I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on Taiwan on its 100 years of principled existence, and on its living example of true democracy against threats that at times might cause others to cower.

Anita,

Before we drop something else for three hours, please run the options by me. I like the rest of the schedule.

Perhaps a conversation or short meeting with the TSMC leadership in the greater Taipei area would be sufficient, rather than a visit to the facility.

Hi Jay,

We are working on a visit to the chip manufacturer (TSMC) and will keep you updated. The company is located in another science park that's about 35 min on high speed rail from Taipei. We will need to find a 3-hour block in your itinerary if this meeting materializes. Will update you on this one.

Thanks,

Hi Jay,

I've booked the time with Alan Eusden for 5pm on Sunday, Oct 16 for a drink with Rep. Reed. I will let you know a venue later, most likely the lobby bar at the hotel.

Regarding the visit to Corning's Taichung plant on Wednesday Oct 19, I am concerned that the time limit may not allow another appointment after the Corning visit. Currently, the itinerary for that day looks like the below. You are scheduled to get back to Taipei at around 18:30, which should allow enough time to pack and have dinner before leaving for the airport at 21:30.

If you prefer to add in another appointment, I could ask the Taichung Science Park Administration to give Rep. Reed a briefing on the operation of the science park right after the Corning facility tour. The briefing would probably take about 30 to 40 minutes, which would push the departure time from Taichung to about 1830 and the arrival time in Taipei to about 1930. This would work but the time for packing and dinner would be cut short to about 1.5 hours.

Let me know what you prefer to do, and I will coordinate accordingly.

Thanks,
Anita

Dear Jay,

AmCham Taipei has confirmed 12- 2pm, Oct 19 for Rep. Reed's luncheon speech. Ms. Sharon Tao, AmCham's Director of Events, will reach out to you for details. I believe she will need a topic of the speech, and outline and Rep. Reed's bio for the announcement. Sharon Tao's email is: sharontao@amcham.com.tw<mailto:sharontao@amcham.com.tw>

Also, Corning Taiwan would be happy to arrange for a tour for Rep. Reed in the afternoon of Oct 19 (after the AmCham luncheon.) Corning's plant is located in Taichung in central Taiwan. The travel time to Taichung is about 1.5 hours (1 hour on the High Speed Rail + 30 minutes of local transportation time). The tour takes 1 hour. The total time is about 4 - 4.5 hours round trip. That should give Rep. Reed enough time to be back to the hotel and freshen up before leaving for the airport that evening. Let me know if you are OK with this arrangement.

In addition to the Corning Plant Tour, Corning Taiwan Chairman Alan Eusden (who is a former AmCham Taipei Chairman, 2009-2010) would like to request an one-on-one meeting with Rep. Reed so he can brief Rep. Reed on important IPR and tax issues facing Corning's operation in Taiwan. Alan has previously delivered such messages to President Ma, and he would appreciate the opportunities for Rep. Reed to reiterate these issues in his meeting with President Ma in the morning of Oct 19. Subject to Rep. Reed's schedule, Alan would like to propose meeting Rep. Reed for a drink at the hotel in the evening Sunday, Oct 16.

Please let me know your thoughts on this.

Thank you and best regards,
Anita

Dear Jay,

Anita and I following up on Corning, and we'll back to you shortly on that matter. FYI, Corning's in central Taiwan, about a 1-hour trip from Taipei (but as you know, it's easy with High Speed Rail). Kraig's working Lockheed and UTC.

I wouldn't pack it all into Monday and Tuesday. You'll have almost one full day on Kinmen, and two full days dedicated to New York companies, U.S. diplomats, President Ma, Agriculture and the Legislature sounds just about right to me.

Let's talk soon,

I'll come up with more soon.

Am a little apprehensive about spending all day Wednesday, as a third day, but meeting Ma and then NY companies, makes it worth it. Unless they can be shifted earlier in week, and we just compress schedule more. Is that possible to pack Wednesday into Monday and Tuesday??

This new outlook culminated in last year's signing of the Economic and Cooperation Framework Agreement between Taiwan and mainland China. Foreign firms can now access mainland China's vast economic potential from the comfort and safety of a Taiwan market that's among the friendliest in the world to U.S. companies and one that also values and protects their intellectual property.

I look forward to the day when the United States can announce the start of free trade agreement (FTA) negotiations with Taiwan, as Singapore did last year. Such a move not only benefit Taiwan companies, but also their many U.S. counterparts that do business there.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China on its 100 years of existence, Taiwan's many economic achievements since 1949, and to further support enhanced economic relations between the United States and Taiwan.

DRAFT CONGRESSIONAL RECORD STATEMENT ON THE 100TH OF THE REPUBLIC OF CHINA (TAIWAN)

Mr. Speaker, October 10th heralds 100 years of the Republic of China (ROC).

Too many people who should know better have been quoted as saying that Western-style individual rights and democracy are somehow not compatible with so-called “traditional” Asian values. Well, just like former U.S. John F. Kennedy said in 1963 to those who didn’t really believe in the threat of Soviet communism, “Let them come to Berlin!”, for those who don’t think true civil rights and democracy can exist and thrive in Asia, I say, “Let them come to Taiwan!”

As Taiwan comes up on its fifth direct presidential election, I sometimes think that politics that has managed to eclipse baseball as the island’s national sport. Everywhere one goes in Taiwan, people want to somehow engage each other in – as well as foreign visitors – and talk politics. But such debate and discourse is always carried out without any fear of reprisal and with legally protected respect for all citizens’ individual rights. The same cannot be said at all about life across the Taiwan Strait in mainland China.

And, again in contrast to mainland China, it’s not only political rights that are protected in Taiwan. Many of the world’s great religions are openly and enthusiastically practiced in Taiwan. These denominations include Buddhism, Taoism, Christianity and many more. Labor unions, NGOs and various activist groups are also free to operate in Taiwan. Taiwan is further home to many languages, dialects and cultures from across Asia. It’s an open, cultural melting pot mosaic of what’s best about Asia.

I therefore, urge all my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Republic of China – that’s now on Taiwan – on its century of tolerance, freedom and eventual democratic ideals. What’s more, Taiwan has achieved all this while under at times great threat of mainland Chinese attack. If all societies practiced Taiwan’s policy of openness and individual rights – even in the face of great obstacles – the world would be a far better place.
